WORKING AS AN ART THERAPIST WITH TRAINEES

Convenors: Janet de Heger & Dave Rogers

Date: Saturday 17th May 2008 - 10.00am to 4.00pm
Venue: Claremont, 24 -27 White Lion Street, N1 9PD

This study day is an opportunity for experienced practitioners who are working or thinking of working, as a therapist for trainees, to explore the depth of this important and growing area of practice.

The day will provide the chance for participants to explore and discuss both the psychodynamic issues presented by the therapeutic work with trainees and the practicalities of developing this aspect of the profession within one's own practice. We will focus on how the work with Trainees differs from other Art Therapy work, and our motivations for taking on this role. We will explore different boundaries that might arise and provide a theoretical seminar to outline the psychodynamic issues presented by this work. We will also address practical issues of work setting, fees, payment and breaks.
